MAY 10, 1887 Deputy Thompson Wants Another $25,000.

ARTICLE ON WHICH HE SUES

Mr. Varian Will Make Hay While the Open Venire Sun Shines-The Alleged Libel.

Deputy Thompson, the slayer of Ed ward M. Dalton at Parowan, has filed a second suit against the Descret News Company, claiming the sum of $25,000 damages for the publication of a certain article under date of February 11th, 1887.

The article in question, as it is quoted in the complaint, reads as follows: "A GENTLE HINT TO THE MARSHAL.

It is stated on the authority of Marshal Dyer that it is his intention to reinstate the deputy (meaning this plaintiff) who shot and killed Edward M. Dalton, of Parowan. Of course the majority of the people of Utah will greatly disapprove this move-ment, and it is not to be expected that the marshal will be very careful to con-sult the teelings of the people likely to be affected by his official action. But we think Mr. Dyer would do well to ask we think Mr. Dyer would do well to ask himself whether such action would be wise, politic or necessary. There is no scarcity of men able and willing to act as deputy marshals. It is not needful to pick out persons for that position whose chief recommendation is reck-

Prudence is or should be a qualification in an officer under the United States, and ought to be exercised in the selection as well as the conduct of officials, (meaning and intending thereby that this plaintiif was reckless and indifferent of human life, and for that reason was an improper and disqualified person for the position of a deputy United states marshal.)

Thompspn has been acquitted (meaning thereby that the plaintiff had committed the crime of murder), and in the eyes of the law may be said to be clear of it. The deed he performed was not only a bloodthirsty, but a mean and, cowardly and contemptible act. A creature who would crawl up under cover, wait till the man he was authorized [to arrest had passed hum, and then shoot him in the back with a rifle, is a wretch to whom it would be a conventionant to designate. with a rifle, is a wretch to whom it would be a compliment to designate him as a dog. If Marshal Dyer wants to inaugurate a campaign of blood, instead of pursuing a penseful execution of the law, he should certainly appoint and continue rufflans of the Thompson and McLennan stripe.

That the disagreeable duties of the office of deputy marshal can be performed in a lawful and gentlemanly manuer, has been demonstrated in the course of several members of bis force, and we are sure that greater success will attend his exertions with such subordinates, than by pandering to a set of howling conspirators. REJECTING MORMONS.

Henderson Still Prying Into Consciences.

Judge Henderson ran riot again in Judge Zane's court yesterday; aided by ment, Messrs, Dickson & Varian, he performed the usual interesting surgidismissing the patients with the admonition that they were hopelessly incurable.

The Mormons who wished to be naturalized were Messrs. Berg. Neils M. Jacobson, George Sherwood, George W. Willis, Nilsson and J. Petterson. Much the same ground was gone over with all. The Judge catechized closely and then asked Dickson & Varian to take a hand. Mr. Dickson replied that he could only do so as a member of the bar, and the Judge told him to act in that capacity. Mr. Varian was detailed off for Mr. Nillson, who had to be questioned through an interpreter. He was asked is he had read the Constituquestioned through an interpreter. He was asked is he had read the Constitution or any of the laws of the United States; the history of the country; the history of the Revolution; the war of 1812; the war of the rebellion; whether he had ever read the histor; of George Washington; whether he knew who George Washington was. To all these questions he answered no. He was asked why he came here at all, and he said it was on account of his religion, so that he might be protected in it. He came here also with the intention of becoming a citizen. He was asked if he was willing to swear fealty to the laws and to swear that he would observe them. But when he was asked whether he would swear that he would never in obedience to any revelation, at any time, under any circumstances, which we the laws and constitution of commitments. any time, under any circumstances, abide by the law on celestial marriage he said he was willing to taken no such oath and was told that he could not become a citizen.

Mr. Sherwood and the Judge indulged it as the could not become a citizen.

Mr. Sherwood and the Judge indulged in a colloquy half an hour long; the young gentleman was willing to take the oath of allegiance, and was willing to swear that he would obey the laws of his adopted country. When he was asked to swear, however, that never at any time would he obey the revelation of polygamy, he declined, and was also ordered to stand aside. He apparently does not propose to give up so easily, and talks of carrying the matter up to a higher tribunal.

a higher tribunal.

The Judge and Mr. Willis also had an extended bout. The gentleman gave the this plaintiff had so done). He is wholly unfit to be associated with honself men. His presence would be an insuit to decent deputies, detailed to work with him. He would not be a safe man to send on raids after accused persons or witnesses, in any sense of the term.

Feople are not going to submit to be shot down at will by an assassin armed by a warrant and a gun."

The complaint goes on to say that in another part of said libel there was and is contained, among other things, the false, scandalous, malicious, defamatory and libelous matter following:

the affirmative: he was asked if he was attached to the law against polyge was not, but he could say that it was not his intention to violate that law. He was pressed as to his belief in polygamy, and he said he thought it was right but he reiterated that it was his intention to violate the law.

Mr. Moyle, who happened to be present, said he was a friend of the applicant, and before any decision was rentered he would like to ask him a few dered he would like to ask him a few dered he would like to ask him a few dered he would like to ask him a few dered he would like to sak him a few dered he would like to sak him a few dered he would like to sak him a few dered he would like to sak him a few dered he was a sked if he was attached to the law against polyge was not, but he could say that it was not his intention to violate the was not his intent ar. Moyle, who happened to be present, said be was a friend of the applicant, and before any decision was rendered he would like to ask him a few questions. This was readily accorded him, and he said:

"let t your honest intention to yield obedience to the laws of the country, and particularly the law aga nst polygamy?"

amy?"
Mr. Willis answered that it was.
"Is not your hesitation due to thisthat you are willing to promise any-thing except if God reve-led to you per-sonally that you ought to obey the re-yelation, you would not do it?"

He replied that that was exactly the state of his mind.

Mr. Moyle then briefly argued that Mr. Willisought to be allowed to take the oath of allegiance. He did not bethe oath of allegiance. He did not believe the law against polygamy was a good law, but he would obey it; he was not taking it with any mental reservation, but would stand befo. e this courtin all honor and earnesiness and give the promise required, fully intending to keep it; but what he was now asked to swear to was such an invasion of his conscience that with his belief it almost amounted to making him for a wear his God and his religion. Mr. Moyle urged: Your Honor may know of laws on the statute book that are obnoxious and which you would have repealed if and which you would have repealed if you had the power, and yet Your Honor would be willing to say you were attached to the laws of the country and would not be questioned in so saying.

In a recent issue of the Louisville Willis' answer should not cause him to country and willis' answer should not cause him to 25c. be rejected.

Judge Henderson answered to some retains his excellent opinion of his eminent abilities as a lawyer and a gentleman. THE PEOPLE'S PARTY.

of Utah.

A grand rally of the People's Party was held in the Opera House last Saturthe late representatives of the govern- day night. The house was well filled with people below; and in the first circle, a large number of ladies, seemingly forcal exercises upon the consciences of several Mormons who applied for citi zenship; laying them open, inspecting them, throing them over, and finally chosen chairman, and B. W. Driggs the proceedings. A. O. Smoot, Jr., was chosen chairman, and B. W. Driggs port of widow and family, pending adgetting their disfranchisement, were secretary. The speakers were each introduced by a few appropriate remarks from the chairman and followed by music from the silver band, John B. Milner was the first speaker introduced. He said it had always been his object as a member of the People's party to seek to maintain the rights of the citizen, and while the party asked and contended for these rights for them-and contended for these rights for themselves, they were alweys willing to accord the same rights to all others.

Hon. S. R. Thurman was the next,
who came timidly before the footlights and speaking low and distinct, said substantially: I take riessure in standing of a political campaign. It has been said that the People's Party avoid discussing the main issue, but so far as he

L. was lialle to kick the bucket at any minute, and he could hardly tell what principles, if any, he was opposing. Are they organized to aid the government in the enforcement of the laws to suppress polygamy and unlawful cohabitation? They themselves deny this to be their object. Only a few days ago a member of the Loyal League said, under oath, that the object of the League was to obtain po itical power, and that that was their only object. They attempted to get a measure through Congress, and now that they have got the very law they were so anxious to get passed, they are trying to trample that law under their feet; and because the Utah Commission did not fall into line and violate the law they have—I'm not here to praise the Utah Commission. Within the last week a member of that body has been heard to say that the Loyal League were only willing to obey the law when the law suited them, and that all they wanted was political extended bout. The gentleman gave the same answers as the others, and Mr. Dickson took him in hand, by asking him whether he was attached to the laws of this coun ry. His answer was in the affirmative; he was asked if he was attached to the law against polygamy; he answered frankly that he was not, but he could say that it was not his intention to violate that law. He was pressed as to his bound to the country of the country of the loval League was responsible for the loval League was loved them, and that all they wanted was political power and control. COMEDY AND OPERETTA.—The Eight eenth Ward Hail, which, by reason of its conveniences, cosy stage and the clever people who appear in it, has become dignified into one of the best piaces of amusement the town affordswas well filled last night, on the occasion of the benefit to the ward building fund. The bill was the comedy of My Wife's Bonnet, presented in the rattling, vivacious style that Mr. Wells and Miss Claridge, Mr. Young and Birdie Cummings, Mr. Fred. Clawson and Mrs. S. H. Clawson, with Miss Iyy Clawson as the maid, know so thoroughly well how to impart to romedy work. Mr. Wells and Mr. Young, in particular, made unlimited merriment, and the ladies acted and dressed up to their usual standard. The afterpiece was the new operetta of Penelope, which turned out to be the familiar, clever force of Area Belle, very aptly set to various gems from such operas as Martha, Bells of Corneville, Bohemian Girl, Chilperic, etc. The music was all excellently rendered, Mr. Careless presiding over the operetta, and with his violin to Mr. Burton's accompaniment. cellently rendered, Mr. Careless presiding over the operetta, and with his violin to Mr. Burton's accompaniment, giving the whole the usual harmonious and breezy swing. Rhoda Mabel Young made a decided impression from the sweetness of her looks, the strength and clearness of her singing and her lively acting: Mr. Pyper carried off the palm for ballad singing and gained a hearty encore for his render-
